SENT TO HOSPITAL FROM CLASS ROOM

Twelve-Year-Old Boy, Flogged at Home, Had to Have Wounds Dressed.

Because he appeared in the Central School yesterday morning with a cut on his cheek and a cut on his forehead, with other signs of what had apparently been a brutal flogging, one of the teachers asked Principal W. A. Crenshaw to send Joseph Campbell, son of J. M. Campbell, of 810 East Leigh Street, to a hospital for treatment.

The boy demurred for a time, but was at length persuaded to go, and he walked to the Retreat for the Sick, which is nearby, to be treated for his injuries. He returned in a short time and went on with his lessons, but on the advice of Mr. Crenshaw was not allowed to write.

Joseph is a pupil in Class 6-A, and is about twelve years old. He has studies under several teachers. The first teacher noticed as he took his seat the two cuts and also that the boy kept a handkerchief to one of his eyes. She examined him and at once reported the matter to Professor Crenshaw, with the advice that the boy be sent to some physician for treatment. When he returned he went through his studies the same teacher said, very well, so far as his classes with her were concerned. She stated that he had never given serious trouble, though he was very mischievous.

She also stated, and said that her statement was true so far as she could learn, that the boy's father was anxious for his son to succeed well in his classes and to be always at the head, so that two weeks ago he had requested Professor Crenshaw to send him a daily report of his progress. It appears that the last report was not entirely satisfactory to the parent, and, according to his own statement last night, he administered the correction which resulted in the need for medical treatment. In explanation, however, Mr. Campbell gave assurances that the cuts and the apparently bruised eye had been given accidentally and unintentionally. The punishment, he said, was intentional, but as he struck at his son the little fellow, who was attempting to dodge the flog, slipped and fell, and the lash, or whatever it was, struck him in the face. The boy went to school nevertheless, and there had been no apparent attempt to dress the hurt, although he had received at the hands of his sire.

Mr. Campbell was formerly in the military. He is now at work as a carpenter.

SEBRELL BRINGS SUIT

Southampton Educator Wants Damages for Charges Recently Brought. Two suits were instituted yesterday in the Law and Equity Court by John N. Sebrell, Sr., as an outgrowth of the charges recently made against him before the State Board of Education. One suit for $10,000 is against a number of Southampton citizens and their attorneys, who brought the charges, and the other against the same parties, and including The Times-Dispatch, which printed an account of the meeting of the board and a statement of the charges brought. No declarations were filed, the style of the two suits being as follows:

John N. Sebrell, Sr., against Robert W. Withers, E. E. Whitehead, W. T. Joyner, J. T. Moore, W. L. McLemore, E. Whitfield, L. H. Birdsong, J. Maury, W. L. Story, J. W. Williams and J. W. Ridley, for $10,000, and the other against all of the same parties and The Times-Dispatch Company for a like amount.

The suits were filed by Hill Carter and Nathaniel T. Green.

CAMPION IS ON FOR NEW MEMBERS

Twelve Teams Working Like Beavers to Get 1,300 in Four Days.

INSPECT NEW QUARTERS

Crowds Visit Y. M. C. A. Home, and Admire Fine Equipment Put There.

Managers of the Richmond Young Men's Christian Association want every man in town to stop by and look over what they call the finest clubhouse in the South. Those in charge of the campaign for members believe that if the men of Richmond will take the time to come and see what the Y. M. C. A. has to offer that it will not be a difficult matter to get the 1,300 additional members desired.

The campaign started yesterday with an amount of enthusiasm and energy that is seldom exhibited. Twelve teams, divided into the Reds and Blues, are working with the utmost friendly rivalry, and each is determined to get more than the number that would make an even break between the teams.

At noon yesterday the two battalions of workers met in the dining-room of the new Y. M. C. A. building for the first luncheon of the campaign. Sixty people were present, and every one had something to say and propose enthusiastically. When the roll was called and the results ascertained it was found that within the very short time the teams had been in the field 149 new members had been enrolled.

The campaign will continue until Friday noon, when the last luncheon will be served. It is anticipated that there is absolute confidence that the number of members desired will have been received by that time.

The new building was crowded yesterday afternoon with visitors, who marveled at the completeness of the equipment of the Y. M. C. A. Not only the general plan and appointments of the place, but the manner in which the most minute details have been worked out for convenience, utility and comfort.

To begin with, the visitor is shown through the basement, which is taken up with engine-rooms, baths, and lockers. The swimming pool, situated twenty feet with depth grading from three to seven feet, is the finest thing of the kind ever seen in Richmond, and probably the best in the South. In a section divided from the pool is the shower and tub-room, and next to that is the business men's section, which is equipped with a modern gymnasium, and the baths for the young men and boys. The lockers are also divided, so that business men may have almost absolute privacy.

The gymnasium is the finest of its kind in this section. All the apparatus which should be in a modern gymnasium is there, and in the gallery is a saucer running track of twenty-four laps to the mile. A smaller gymnasium has been installed for the use of special classes when the larger room is in use.

The boys' department is especially attractive, including lounge-room, reading-rooms and club-rooms. It is proposed to give the boys quarters to themselves and let them be entirely separate from the men.

The furniture is being installed in the dormitories, and it is expected that the lodgers will be able to move into their quarters by the first of May. The rooms are furnished with first-class mahogany and oak furniture.

The Y. M. C. A. was organized by inspired two teams, captained by the most energetic workers in the association, with the greatest enthusiasm in their work. The members, and the campaign started with a rush that bids fair to bring in more than the number called for. It is believed that a business man who has not yet joined will get more for his money than he would if he spent it in any other way, besides the moral benefits to be gained.

The Lynchburg Y. M. C. A. started with a new building, not nearly so great or as well appointed as that in Richmond, and when the institution opened there were 2,000 members on the books. "There is no reason," said one of the workers yesterday, "why the Richmond branch should not have with just as many members. And we are going to get them."

As an indirect development of the recent councilmanic primary, when it was alleged that members of the police force were unduly active in certain sections of Marshall Ward, a caucus of the Marshall Ward delegation in the City Council was held yesterday, at which R. N. Goode was nominated by the Board of Police Commissioners to succeed Joseph B. Welsh, the present commissioner, who is also a candidate for re-election. Seven of the eight members of the ward delegation were present at the caucus, which is said to have been duly called and formally held. Six of the seven voted for Mr. Goode, making his nomination and support by the ward delegation assured. The election comes about July 1, and will be by both branches of the City Council sitting in joint session.

A fight for the Police Board is also on in Henry Ward, where former Councilman Cliff Well is running against the present commissioner, Walter O. Duke. It has been stated that every member of the Henry Ward delegation is pledged to Mr. Well, and was so pledged before the primary, though no formal ward caucus has been held. As Mr. Duke is making an active campaign on his record with the use of several letters of endorsement, two vigorous contests may be expected with the two commissionships as the bone of contention. According to usual Council courtesy, the nomination of the ward delegation is binding on other members, though there have been some notable exceptions, as, for instance, when the Marshall Ward delegation nominated James W. Gentry for the Council some years ago and John Grimes won for the unopposed term.

MAKE BROAD STREET GREAT WHITE WAY

Electricity Committee Approves Plan for Sidewalk Lights.

COST $26,500 TO INSTALL

Retail Merchants Say Broad Is Now Poorest Lighted Street in the City.

Plans were presented by Samuel Cohen, J. G. Corley and other representatives of the Retail Merchants' Association, to the Council Committee on Electricity last night for a permanent scheme of illumination of Broad Street, from Pine Street to the City Hall. The plan was adopted by the committee and recommended to the Council. It carries an initial cost for installation of $26,500, and an annual cost of maintenance of $2,440, less the present cost of the arc lamps at street intersections if they are removed.

Mr. Cohen made a vigorous presentation, saying that at present Broad Street, the most important retail shopping street and the center of the theater district, was not so well lighted, for lamp and arc area area considered, as some obscure residential streets. High rents and high taxes, he said, justified the merchants in asking for special consideration, while the proposed lights would be for the enjoyment and welfare of all the people of the city.

The plan he proposed calls for six ornamental posts on each block, three on each side, at the curb line. From each post there is swung five tungsten incandescent electric lamps, giving a thorough illumination. The plan calls for 100 such poles, stretching from Pine Street to Eleventh.

Money Only Problem.

Consulting Engineer Trafford, who has charge of the construction of the municipal electric plant, said that the only problem was the financial—whether the city wished to make the outlay for installation and maintenance of the poles and lamps. The city, he said, would be in a position shortly to furnish the power at a lower cost than any city of its size in the United States, from its own plant. Allowing for power, maintenance and depreciation, he thought the lamps, once installed, would cost but $2,440 per year, while if the present arc lamps are removed, their annual cost may bring the figure down to about $1,500 a year.

"I would recommend, however," said Mr. Trafford, "that we still retain the arc lamps for lighting the roadbeds and throwing light into the cross streets."

"Our plan in the new distribution systems call for two arc lamps at each cross street on Broad Street. The ornamental sidewalk lights could be so arranged as to be cut out, say at midnight, leaving the arc lamps on to light the street until morning."

The committee approved of this plan, and forwarded to the Council a resolution calling for an appropriation to install the new lamps at a cost of $26,500, all on underground connections, according to the plans proposed by the Retail Merchants' Association. The committee opened bids for the distribution system in connection with the new plant, and referred them all to a subcommittee. A letter from one of the contractors claiming payment for certain extras was referred to the City Attorney for an opinion as to the construction of the contract.

NO PRIMARY FOR SOUTHSIDE WARD

Washington's Representatives in City Council Declared Winners in June Election.

TO RECOUNT VOTES MAY 6

City Committee Receives Lohmann's Protest, and Will Examine Ballots.

Friday night, May 6, was last night agreed on by the City Democratic Committee as the date upon which to recount the votes cast in Madison Ward in last Thursday's election. The recount is to be held at the request of Oscar E. Lohmann, who was defeated in his race for the City Council by Barney Bowman by a majority of one vote.

It was further decided that it would be inexpedient to hold a primary election at this late date in Washington Ward, and the members of the present delegation from that ward in the Board of Aldermen and the City Council were declared to be the Democratic nominees for the June election.

Mr. Lohmann will have to put up $50 for the recount. The amount was fixed in the suggestion of City Chairman Miles M. Martin. If the result is in the contestant's favor, this amount will be returned to him. If he loses, only that portion of the $50 will be returned which is unexpended.

Frank Ferraro, of Monroe Ward, in his letter asking for the recount, said the amount was too large. But he said that Mr. Lohmann would put up whatever the committee decided, within reason. Chairman Martin said that the hall rent would have to be paid, and that perhaps the greater part of a night would be consumed in the work, with necessary refreshments.

Anti-Supper Motion.

M. W. Evans, of Marshall Ward, moved that no supper be served on that occasion, but the chairman promptly ruled this motion out of order. In his letter asking for the recount Mr. Lohmann said that he and his friends did not claim there had been any irregularities. But he called attention to the possibility of a mistake, and the similarity in sound of his name and that of his successful opponent, as mentioned to bear out his contention.

All kinds of a discussion ensued over the date, motions, amendments and substitutes being made in great number. Finally May 6 was selected.

Washington Ward was called upon to say what it wanted to do. Ward Superintendent Willis C. Pulliam said that the delegation was divided. Two of the committeemen thought there should be a primary, two that the present delegation in the city's governing bodies should be declared the nominees by the City Committee, and nominees by the City Committee, and ready to do what the committee thought best. Some of the people thought, he said, that it would be inadvisable to have another election within the next few weeks, following the bitter contest of last month.

Captain William M. Myers, of Lee Ward, opposed a motion which was made to refer the matter to the Committee on Plans. He thought it should be decided at once. He thought that the people of Washington should have a chance to vote on their representation in the Council. He did not believe it right, within thirty days after annexing a body of citizens, to say for them who should be their representatives. He moved that a primary be held in Washington Ward on Thursday, May 12.

Mr. Evans made the motion to declare the present members the nominees. The ward delegation had no objection to make to any of those now serving. Two of the members of the ward should be given a chance to vote on their representation in the Council. He did not believe it right, within thirty days after annexing a body of citizens, to say for them who should be their representatives. He moved that a primary be held in Washington Ward on Thursday, May 12.

VEGETABLES AND BERRIES COMING BY IN TRAINLOADS

Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Expects to Handle 5,000 Cars From Southern Lines During Present Season.

Trainload after trainload of early vegetables and strawberries from the Southern States are arriving here every day and are being hauled as fast as special engines can carry them over the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad to Washington, where they are being distributed by the connections there to feed the various cities of the North and East. According to its size as compared with all the other cities, Richmond's share is being left on the sidetracks here in passing.

Traffic Manager Warren P. Taylor, of the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac, said yesterday that the movement was larger than ever before. He estimates that shipments this season will be almost double those of last year. The road has made special arrangements for the season and is now in a position to take all shipments to Washington with the smallest possible delay. Though there has been some frost and cool weather in the South during the last day or two, it has apparently had but small effect on the shipping, and with the prediction of the Weather Department that a warm spell will begin this morning, there will probably be no falling off.

The movement started last week, and since Friday the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac has moved 837 carloads of perishables, 277 of which were strawberries. Counting a train to consist of forty cars, this means that there have been pulled through the city for the Northern markets twenty-one solid trainloads of truck already, with the season only a few days old.

In order to have equipment in readiness to transport these shipments each spring, this road, which is the only truck opening to the North, makes a careful estimate of the crop to be transported, and rarely goes far wrong. Mr. Taylor estimated yesterday that there would be at least a total of 2,300 cars of berries, as against 1,700 cars for last year. Of cabbage, snaps, potatoes and other early vegetables, he thinks that the road will be called upon to haul 5,000 carloads or more. Roughly speaking, therefore, there will be a total of 185 trainloads of perishable goods to pass through this city during the season.

The greater part of the cabbage, which thus far has taken up most of the car space, comes from the vicinity of Charleston, S. C., and has reached here over the Atlantic Coast Line. The majority of shipments by the Coast Line come from Meigs, Young's Island and Charleston Neck. In the last day or two there have also been heavy shipments of lettuce and asparagus. The Atlantic Coast Line, by reason of the territory through which it runs, brings practically the bulk of truck and berries as far as Richmond.

One Virginia pharmacist, who has operated on probation to give him opportunity to reform his intemperate habits, will probably suffer a positive revocation of his license during the present meeting of the State Board of Pharmacy. A number of several men in this State whose habits of intemperance have been such as to have been in the same condition, has been cited to appear Friday. He will be required to show that there is no longer any reason to fear for the safety of the public through his handling of prescriptions, or else his license to do business will also be revoked.

It is only within the last two years that the State board has been given discretion in this matter, and it is believed that a cast amount of good sense has been accomplished. Several men in this State whose habits of intemperance have been such as to have been in the same condition, has been cited to appear Friday. He will be required to show that there is no longer any reason to fear for the safety of the public through his handling of prescriptions, or else his license to do business will also be revoked.

The board also regards with pleasure the result of its policy in having an inspector constantly in the field to see that the law is nowhere violated. This official observer, who is not a pharmacist, is in charge of any drug store. He also takes samples of medicines if he suspects they are not up to the standard, and the druggist is given a warning in case anything of the kind is discovered. To the honor of the profession, Secretary Miller said yesterday that there has been no second offense of this kind.

All day long yesterday, at the Medical College of Virginia, applicants for license wrestled with the examination papers. Fifty-three men, nine of them negroes, took the examination for registered pharmacists, while 30 for registered assistant pharmacists. The examination was completed at about 7 o'clock. It will take a day or two to examine the papers, after which the names of those who have passed will be announced. In addition to the written examination, all applicants must pass through a course in the laboratory. Here they were required to make pills, and various poultices and ointments, and to do various and sundry other stunts, which the men behind the prescription cases of the State are called to perform.
